HOMES

AT HOME in the PARK

"20s stone house grows contemporary space without losing its traditional appeal"

How do you grow a great house? The answer is simple: you don't. You just let it grow. In the case of the Segal Residence, the house has grown naturally over the years, blending old and new in a way that is both harmonious and surprising. The result is a home that is as much a part of the neighborhood as it is a statement of modern design.

The house is a beautiful blend of old and new. The stone facade and gabled roof are reminiscent of the early 20th century, while the large windows and open floor plan are modern. The result is a home that is both timeless and contemporary.

The addition blends well with the house's milieu. The new living areas are designed to complement the existing structure, creating a seamless transition between old and new. The result is a home that is both functional and beautiful.

The Segal Residence is a true masterpiece of architecture. It is a home that has grown naturally over the years, blending old and new in a way that is both harmonious and surprising. The result is a home that is as much a part of the neighborhood as it is a statement of modern design.

ADDITIONS, ALTERATIONS AND RENOVATIONS THE SEGAL RESIDENCE

JEROME AND MONICA SEGAL

Pittsburgh, PA
(412) 371-5456

OCCUPANCY: Single family residence
AREA: 4,500 square feet
CONSTRUCTION COST: $ 350,000

DESCRIPTION: The design for this addition and whole house renovation project connects the existing 72 year old, 600 sq.ft. cottage to the existing two car detached garage. The cottage renovation creates new private living areas, such as the Master Bedroom Suite, Library/Study, and Studio/Project Room. The new addition is more public and includes the Kitchen/Breakfast Area and Great Room. Connecting the two sides of the house is a new Entry Hall, and a "Greenhouse" Vestibule that leads to a private deck.
